

STATION 20 Spring-Fed Wetland

The wet area seen from this station receives water from many seeps and springs. Much of the precipitation that falls on the sandy soils east and west of the wetland recharges a groundwater reservoir that discharges to the area year-round, even during extended dry periods.

.