

STATION 3 Vernal Pool

This vernal pool occupies a glacial kettle where sediments once covered glacial ice that later melted. The pool typically holds water during the winter and spring seasons and is a breeding habitat for amphibians, including frogs and salamanders.

Photo by Bill Byrne